BURN FIELDS OF GRAIN TO DESTROY ARMY WORM

Indiana Farmers Are Taking Desperate
Measures to Rid Themselves of Pest.

Indianapolis, June 18.—Wheat and other grain fields in Indiana were being burned yesterday by farmers in an effort to stop the ravages of the "army worm," which has appeared in great numbers in various sections of the state, especially the east central portion. Gangs of men have been working for several days but their efforts to poison and stop the worms by plowing have had little result. No estimate of the loss is available, but near Muncie alone it is said to exceed $50,000.

Uncle Sam Plays the Role of Foster Father to His Boys.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—Just by way of illustrating what the federal board for vocational education is doing for our wounded boys, take this case which is one of thousands who are being helped to overcome their handicap.

Away back early in the war one of the boys got a frightful wound in the leg and was carried to the hospital half crazy with the pain. After the other effects had passed, he was told that his right leg had been taken off just five inches below the hip. "Were they to let his mother know, or his father?" He shook his head. You see he didn't happen to have any father or mother. In fact, it developed that there wasn't a single soul that that boy knew who would be interested to make life worth while for him, after he got back to his town with a wooden leg and a shattered future.

There were lots of complications too. He had been so anxious to get an education that he had borrowed the money to go through high school, because he had hopes of entering the banking business later on. With no right leg and no money, it looked for a while as though there wasn't any heart either to go on and fight it out. But it was there, and the only thing needed to discover it was the exercise of a little intuition on the part of a special agent of the federal board for vocational education. These special agents are endowed with a kind of super sense. They know when a man has some possibility hidden away that even he himself doesn't know about. The possibility they found here was a good enough bet to stake a pretty fair sum of money on, and that is what the board did.

He was sent after his discharge to a commercial school, and completed a course in commercial subjects. And then the possibility didn't seem to be at an end, for he was found to have made such good progress there that he was given a collegiate course in banking and economics so that his field of activity could be considerably widened.

Sometimes, he says, he stops and thinks of that first day when he wished so hard for somebody to care, and then of to-day when he is doing the one thing that he has always wanted to do, and hardly dared to hope for. This is just one out of the thousands of cases on file with the federal board.

His Objection.
"Your nephew seems to possess marked literary ability."
"Yes, some folks say so," replied the gaunt Missourian. "But I hope he won't take to poetry. I'd just about as soon see him in the legislature."—Judge.

Upgrading Much Needed in American Industries.

Washington, D. C., June 18.—If every soldier were back on his old job the country would still be 4,000,000 short of its normal number of workers due to the loss of immigration the past four years; if industry does not quickly develop some means for overcoming this shortage it will be seriously handicapped in adjusting itself to new conditions, say officials of the U. S. training service of the department of labor.

They point out that the country has gone without its normal supply of peace-time commodities for years and now it must replenish freely. Furthermore Europe has lost millions of men and tens of billions of property in the devastated regions must be made good. It is urged that to meet this extraordinary situation the workers in factories and shops must be assisted in increasing their skill and interest in their work. The estimated shortage in this country of 700,000 houses is cited as showing how far the nation is behind normal production.
Training courses in the industrial plants, conducted at the employers' expense, are advocated as one of the practical means of putting industry on a normal footing. More than 350 firms have already instituted courses of this sort and according to reports received by the training service, have benefited in better production and reduced turnover. The workers on the other hand have increased their skill and broadened their knowledge of their trades.
